I could not make your questions fit my situation, which is why I did not reply. I suffer from Lichen Sclerosus and have used my DermaSilk pants every night since ordering them. I find them extremely beneficial and they definitely stop me scratching (I recently went on holiday for a week and forgot to take them with me - by the end of the week the itching at night was back). I rinse them out in pure soap flakes in the morning and they are ready to wear by bedtime.

I have recently seen a specialist about my condition at the   *, and I told her how beneficial your product is. I would have no hesitation in recommending DermaSilk to anyone else who has the same condition as me. She said that I was managing the condition extremely well and I am sure that is mostly due to DermaSilk.

I really am delighted with DermaSilk and intend to carry on using it. In fact, I have recommended DermaSilk to my son-in-law as he suffers from eczema.

Regards
